

The background of the cover is a scenic photograph of a large body of water, likely a lake or wide river, under a bright blue sky with scattered white clouds. In the foreground, a grassy shoreline is visible with two small motorboats (one red, one white) pulled up to the water's edge. The text 'NEQA' is in dark blue, with the 'Q' containing a white silhouette of a fish. 'DERBY' is in a light green color. Below it, '2021 Guide' is written in a dark blue, cursive font. At the bottom, there is a white rounded rectangular box.

This year, we've introduced a new Catch and Release option to the Derby (see rules starting on page 19.) We hope this may further reduce our limited impact on the Nushagak River. We encourage those who are interested to participate in this new category for the chance to win two roundtrip air tickets which have been generously donated by Alaska Airlines.

Place Names

Connections with land are essential to Bristol Bay culture. Each place has a story. Where there are berries or salmon, there are names. These place names were not written on paper, but kept in a community's understanding of its place. Here are a few place names near the Nushagak.

Akulivikcaq – Ekwok Lodge

Def. - Area between. May be simply a place name or may reference the small creek that formerly divided the site into two equal parts. Located on the west bank of Nushagak River approximately 5 kilometers downstream of Ekwok. This was considered an important site and one of the largest on the river.

Curyung: Dillingham:

Choggiung - Def: Possibly related to murky, dirty like tea. Located at the extreme northern end of the Nushagak Bay in northern Bristol Bay at the confluence of the Wood and Nushagak Rivers.

Ilgayaq - Nushagak River and name of Bristol Bay –

Def: Possibly means a place to hide – the root word of Ilgayaq is “iiq” to hide. Everyone could identify the location on a map, but no one could explain the meaning of the name. Elders said it's a name that the elders were born into, and is a river name that people long ago named and our generation and their generation know it with no meaning.

Iquaq – Ekwok – Def: End of bluff. Located on the right bank of the Nushagak just above the mouth of Klutuk Creek, 43 miles northeast of Dillingham. It is the oldest continuously occupied Eskimo village on the river. The first post office established in 1935 known as “Ekwok.”

The language of salmon

Each of the five Pacific salmon species has several names.

The Yup'ik and Dena'ina languages include very specific vocabulary related to fish and water, which emphasizes their cultural importance. For example, in Yup'ik, the word aciirturtet means “the first group of king salmon running under the smelt.”

Once the name of the person on the entry ticket is assigned, only fish from that entrant can be weighed in against that ticket. (i.e. you cannot have one person weigh-in fish on a ticket on Friday and a different person weigh-in fish on that same ticket on Sunday).
- (iii) Contestants turning in fish to the derby MUST BE in the weigh scale line up by closing time each day to weigh or submit their fish.
- (iv) Contestants weighing in fish MUST provide the weigh scale staff their valid fishing license with necessary stamps attached for their entry to be validated. Derby staff will verify the derby ticket was purchased by the participant and participant will sign ticket agreeing to terms and conditions prior to salmon weigh in. - (v) All salmon entries must be greater than 28 inches in length (or five (5) pounds in weight).

 - a. Fish must be kept in water and measured for total length and girth. The girth is measured at the thickest portion of the midsection and the length is measured from the tip of the nose to the tip of the tail. All measurements should be in inches and to the nearest half inch.
 - b. A photo of the fish must be shown to derby weigh station staff and verified on a weigh station ticket. At least one photo must be a side-view of the fish on a clearly discernible measuring device, indicating both length and width.
 - c. Weight will be determined utilizing the following formula:

$$\mathbf{(Length \times Girth \times Girth) / 740 = Weight}$$

EXAMPLE: A king salmon is 52 inches long and has a girth of 30.5 inches. The calculation is as follows: $Weight = (52 \times 30.5 \times 30.5) / 740 = (48,373) / 740 = 65.37 \text{ lbs.}$
